SUBJECT: General—

Specific—
Briefing of Senator Russell

During the course of my briefing of Senator Russell, the substance of which has been reported through normal channels, Senator Russell made some reference to special air activity on the part of KUBARK. This came up apropos of some remark which the Senator made about airmen who had come down inside Russia. I thought that he was referring to the C-118 but he indicated that he knew about that. He then said something about some very fancy, new, high-flying planes that he had been told something about two or three years ago. In view of the injunction in DIR 43971 against any discussion of  activities, I said that Washington could best answer this question and that I would communicate the Senator's interest in the matter. He shook his head and said that he was not interested in pursuing the question any further and that he had been vaguely curious about what had finally happened in this field.

If any consideration is ever given to briefing representatives of Congress on this matter, Senator Russell would clearly be a very interested listener.
